Exceptional Caregiving

Caring for someone with Alzheimer's disease is never easy. It means a change in lifestyle and the responsibility of making difficult decisions. Choosing an alternative that can lessen your anxiety, but not your commitment may be one of the most important decisions you will ever make; both in caring for the one you love and in caring for yourself.

At Wellington Parc, we understand that individuals who suffer from a memory impairment have very special needs. Our team approach enables us to develop an individualized plan of care that enhances mental and social functioning in a secure environment.

We invite you to become acquainted with Wellington Parc and let us share with you the dedication to service that has become our hallmark.
